GENERAL STATEMENT.

The departments of instruction in connection with Howard University are as follows:

A. ACADEMICAL BRANCH:

- I. NORMAL DEPARTMENT;
- II. PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT;
- III. COLLEGE DEPARTMENT;

B. PROFESSIONAL BRANCH:

- IV. MEDICAL DEPARTMENT;
- V. LAW DEPARTMENT;
- VI. THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

These departments are separately constituted; but so connected as to secure to each other, as far as possible, all the advantages of the Institution, and to insure, with natural diversity and distinctness, desirable unity.

The same general advantages of chapel and other religious exercises, of the Public Library, Cabinets, Laboratories, and General Lectures are extended to all, with all the special advantages of departmental drill and instruction.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

All applicants must present satisfactory evidence of good moral character.

Students are admitted at any time, if prepared to enter regular classes.

The school year begins with the Fall Term, at which time the Classification commences.

Candidates for admission to the Normal School, will be required to pass satisfactory examinations in Arithmetic (through long division), Reading, Spelling (common words of two syllables), and Elements of Geography.

The course of instruction in this school is so arranged that those who complete it will be prepared to enter either the Normal or Preparatory Course.

Candidates for admission to the Normal School must be fourteen years of age, and sustain examinations in Reading and Spelling, Writing, Arithmetic (through Compound Interest), English Grammar (through Syntax), United States History, and Geography with Map-Drawing.

This course of instruction is designed for students who have the work of teaching in view; but it is equally adapted to those who seek a good English education.

Advanced pupils will teach classes in the MODEL SCHOOL, under the direction of the Principal.

Diplomas will be awarded to all students regularly completing the above course.

The Normal Department is mainly supported by what is known as the "Miner Fund."

For other points of interest address in person, or by letter, the Principal of the department.

DEGREES.

On recommendation of the Faculty, the usual degrees are conferred on graduates.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

SESSION OF 1875-76.

The Annual Session of the school commences the first of October and continues twenty weeks. This Department commands all the means and advantages in use at the present day for giving a complete and thorough course of medical instruction. In accordance with the original intentions of the trustees the lectures of this department have been made Free. Students are only required to pay a matriculation and graduation fee.

Clinical Instruction.

Arguments have been made for the admission of the students of medicine, under proper restrictions, to the Freedmen's General Hospital and Asylum, situated within the grounds of the Institution, for the purpose of studying diseases at the bedside. Surgical, medical, and obstetrical cases will be seen by the class, under the supervision of the professors, and operations will be performed in their presence in the amphitheatre. Clinical instructions occur twice a week.

Hospital Facilities and Resident Students.

The hospital contains several hundred patients, and presents unusual facilities for the study of practical medicine and surgery. Resident students are selected every quarter from the graduating class to serve in the wards of the hospital. They will write prescriptions under the directions of the Professors, and keep histories of all the interesting cases and assist at clinics.

Requirements for Matriculation.

1. The applicant must furnish evidence of good moral character.
2. He must possess a thorough English education, and a sufficient acquaintance with the Latin language to understand and write prescriptions and to understand medical terms in common use.

Requirements for Graduation

1. The candidate must furnish evidence, to the Dean of having studied medicine three years, under the supervision of a regular practitioner of medicine, during which time he must have attended two full courses of lectures at some regular medical college, the last of which must have been in this Institution.

2. He must have dissected at least two terms and attended the clinical lectures.

3. He must present the Faculty an acceptable thesis, original and in his own handwriting, upon some medical subject.

4. He must be twenty-one years of age, and pass a satisfactory examination in all branches of the course.

Expenses.

Matriculation.	$10.
Graduation,	$30.

For Practical Anatomy, charges vary according to circumstances.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission are required to be well grounded in the common English branches, in rhetoric and in elementary natural science, and after the close of the summer term in 1877 will be required, unless graduates of some college, to pass a satisfactory examination in algebra, geometry, Latin, logic, and mental science. The Latin required will be not less than three books of Caesar's Commentaries, four orations of Cicero and the Germania of Tacitus, or an equivalent. With less mental discipline than this amount of preliminary study implies, it is the judgment of the Faculty that students will fail in our two years' course to master the principles of law or become adequately furnished for the work of the profession.

The department is open to all who possess the requisite qualifications. Before attending upon the exercises the students must apply to the Secretary of the Board for tickets of admission, and make satisfactory arrangements with the Treasurer for the payment of all dues to the University.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The following text-books, from some of which only special chapters are selected for study and recitation, are used :

First Year. Walker's Introduction to American Law; Blackstone's and Kent's Commentaries.

Second Year. Greenleaf on Evidence; Illiard on Torts; Washburn on Real Property; Parsons on Bills and Notes; Stephen on Pleading; Adams on Equity, and Bishop on Criminal Law.

EXERCISES.

The exercises consist mainly of recitations from text books, which the students procure for themselves, and are held in the main University building at hours convenient for those who are engaged in clerical and other pursuits. It is hoped that lectures may be given, so far as they can be usefully introduced; but they are not regarded as in any respect a substitute for careful study on the part of the student. Forensic exercises, including debates and essays on legal subjects, and moot courts are held under the supervision of members of the Faculty.

SPECIAL ADVANTAGES.

Washington furnishes some special advantages for law students, among which may be named the opportunity of attending upon sessions of Congress, and of the Supreme Court of the United States, and of the Courts of the District of Columbia, and free access to large general and law libraries.

GRADUATION AND DEGREES.

All students of good character, who pursue the course of study prescribed in the department, attending regularly upon the exercises, and comply with the regulations of the University otherwise and the requirements of the Faculty, upon passing a satisfactory examination, will receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws and may, on motion, be admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; and this, by courtesy, secures admission to the bar in most of the States.

No degree, however, can be conferred until all books are returned to the library and all dues to the University discharged.

TUITION.

The charge per year, if paid in advance, is $40; if paid monthly, $50.

THEOLOGICAL DEPARTMENT.

ADMISSION.

This department is open to students of every Christian denomination. Every applicant for admission must present testimonials of Christian character and evidence of such preparation as will enable him to profit by the studies of the department.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

Not less than three years will be required for a complete course; and the Holy Scriptures will be made the principal study.

Theological students will be permitted to receive, free of expense, instruction in the academical departments of the Institution in such studies as the Faculty of the Theological Department may advise, and will have free access to the library and reading room and to the scientific collections of the University.

In addition to the regular studies of the classes, valuable and extended courses of lectures will be given by pastors of churches in this city. These lectures will form an important part of the advantages of this department.

EXPENSES.

No charges will be made for instruction, nor for rent of rooms; but each student will pay $5 per year for incidental expenses. Good board can be had for $3 per week.

It is believed that with the opportunities of self-support which Washington affords, and with the aid of benevolent persons, churches, &c., which the Faculty will seek, any young man of promise can here enter upon and complete a course of theological studies. No one of good abilities, of earnest piety, and who is persuaded that God has called him to preach the gospel, need hesitate in seeking a preparation to enter upon the great work of the Ministry.

JUNIOR YEAR.

Biblical Introduction; Geography and Antiquities; Greek Testament—Gospels; Hebrew—Grammar and Pentateuch; Natural Theology; Biblical Theology of the Old Testament; Sacred History; Evidences of Christianity; Lectures on English Language; Rhetorical Exercises; English Bible.

MIDDLE YEAR.

Interpretation; Greek Testament, Acts, and Epistles; Hebrew Bible—Psalms and Prophets; Biblical Theology of the New Testament; Church History to Reformation; Homiletics and Pastoral Theology; Mental and Moral Science; Rhetorical Exercises; English Bible.

SENIOR YEAR.

Interpretation—Systematic Theology; Homiletics—Exercises in Construction of Plans and in Preaching Sermons; Church History, from the Reformation; History of Christian Doctrine; Ecclesiastical Polity of New Testament; Lectures on Missions and English Bible.

SPECIAL STATEMENT.

ADMISSION.

The Institution offers the full advantages of each department to all, without regard to creed, race, or sex.

RECITATIONS AND DEPORTMENT.

A permanent record is kept of the recitations, general conduct, attainments, and delinquencies of each student.

A copy of this record, when requested, is furnished to parents and guardians.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

All students are required to attend public worship at least once on the Sabbath, the regular Bible lessons weekly, and the morning religious exercises in the Chapel.

There are two weekly prayer-meetings at the University one on Wednesday evening, conducted by the officers of the Institution; the other on Saturday evening, conducted by students. There is also a preaching service every Sabbath evening, under the general conduct of the Faculties.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Literary Societies are formed in each of the Departments, fostered and encouraged by the several Faculties for improvement in elocution, extemporaneous speaking, written discussions, and general culture. These Societies meet weekly, with occasionally public meetings.

PHYSICAL SCIENCES.

It is the design of the University to give due prominence to the several branches of physical science in all the Academical Departments, and practical lectures will be given illustrated by suitable apparatus.

EXAMINATIONS.

There will be examinations in all the Departments at the close of each term, oral or written, at the option of each Faculty. The examination at the close of the year will be before a committee appointed by the Faculty. At all these examinations it is expected that members of the Board of Trustees are, ex-officio, an examining committee.

LIBRARIES AND READING ROOMS.

The Institution has made a very creditable beginning in the direction of public and special libraries and reading rooms. The general library contains about 7,000 volumes, many of them choice and select works. The Professional Departments have each a separate library.

All students of the University are allowed free access to the general library and reading room, subject to regulations.

CABINETS, MUSEUM, &c.

The mineral cabinet is furnished with proper cases, in which the geological and mineralogical specimens have been carefully arranged.

The entire collection contains over 4,000 specimens, including fossils, minerals, American and foreign marbles, marine productions, and ores of the various metals.

The museum contains various articles illustrative of foreign and American history, an extensive collection of coins, medals, and curious notes, specimens of valuable woods, Indian relics from Arizona, portraits of distinguished men and women, views of the late war, engravings of various subjects, and photographic views of classic ruins in Rome.

The Trustees are desirous of enlarging the collections in these departments, and solicit contributions from all friends of the institution. Such gifts will always be acknowledged by the president and librarian over their own signatures.

AID TO INDIGENT STUDENTS.

The Institution has no permanent fund for the aid of this class of students, but continued efforts are made by officers and teachers to obtain help for those who deserve it.

During the year ending June 30, 1875, the Acting President received from Hon. Gerrit Smith $1,000, and from others, in sums of $200 and less, $2,114.83, making a total of $3,114.83, which was applied to the aid of worthy students.

So far, during the present school year, there has been received the sum of $795.56.

UNIVERSITY SITE AND BUILDINGS.

The Institution occupies a commanding and beautiful site just outside of the city proper, on the north, at the head of Seventh street. Its University edifice is four stories in height, containing recitation and lecture rooms, chapel, library, philosophical rooms, museum and offices.

Miner Hall, set apart for ladies, will accommodate one hundred and forty students, together with rooms for matron and teachers. The rooms are arranged in suites of two, with two closets, each suite to be occupied by two persons. They are uniformly furnished with stove, chairs, bedstead, mattress, wash-stand, table, and book-shelves. Students furnish their own bedding.

The basement of this building is arranged and furnished for the University boarding hall.

Clarke Hall, for young men, will accommodate two hundred students, and its rooms are furnished like those in Miner Hall.

The buildings for the Medical Department, with their grounds, adjoin the University Park.

EXPENSES.

Board in the University Hall is $12 per month, paid in advance.

Washing is about $2 per month.

Tuition is $4 per term.

Room rent and fuel are from $12 to $15 per term.

The treasurer's bills, including tuition, room rent, and fuel, must be paid at the beginning of each term.

It is estimated that from $175 to $200 will meet all the above-mentioned bills for the entire academic year of thirty-seven weeks.

No deductions are made for less than six weeks absence and then only on account of personal sickness.

Other expenses will depend upon the habits and economy of the student. The real advantage gained in study and right culture will be in the inverse ratio of all moneys needlessly spent.

NOTE —After June 30, 1876, it is the purpose of the Trustees to reduce the price of board to the actual cost of material and labor, possibly as low as $8.00, but not above $10.00 per month and to charge $4.00 per term for rent of rooms and furniture, students furnishing their own fuel.
